ABSTRACT:

Gestational diabetes mellitus (GDM) is highly prevalent metabolic disorder varied in degrees of intensity starting with pregnancy or noticed during pregnancy. It is associated with maternal and neonatal adverse outcomes. The prevalence of GDM is increasing worldwide and parallel to the increment in the prevalence of obesity and type 2 diabetes mellitus. It is essential to diagnose and treat GDM early, in order to reduce or avoid complications for mother and fetus. There is a lack of uniformity in screening and diagnosing GDM globally. This review covers the latest update in the diagnosis and management of GDM. Treatment must be individualized for best results, including a medical nutrition therapy supplementary diet and exercise. If these measures fail to control the blood glucose levels, the use of pharmacologic interventions should be initiated includes mainly Insulin and their analogs. Other oral antihyperglycemic agents such as Metformin and Glyburide are also discussed, in face of new facts regarding their safety and efficacy during pregnancy.

ABSTRACT

The objective of this work is to formulate and evaluate a cosmetic herbal face pack for glowing skin by using natural ingredients. With the varying concentrations, four different formulations containing ingredients such as multani mitti, turmeric, aloe vera, sandal wood, orange peel, neem and nutmeg, were prepared named as F1 to F4. All prepared formulations were evaluated by different parameters like organoleptic properties and physico-chemical parameters and stability along with irritancy test and microbial load. Among all formulation, F2 was found to be good in physical parameters, free from skin irritation and maintained its consistency even after stability storage conditions and also having microbiological stability.

The Pitfalls of Growing Nanomedicine in Relation to the Specific Nanoscale Properties: Mini Review

Abstract

Nanomedicine is now proposed as an alternative to classical way for diagnosis, imaging agents, delivery and targeting. For the past few decades, there has been a considerable research interest in the area of drug delivery using as different nanoscale carriers for small and large molecules including liposomes, nanoparticles, antibodies etc. There is an urgent need to improve the understanding of toxicological implications of nanomedicines. Particular health risk of nanotechnology application in nanomedicine is still unknown, but researchers are gradually putting up theories to prove that nanotechnology pose many threats to human health as well as the environment. The current mini review presents the pitfalls of growing nanomedicine with nanoscale properties.

Surveys to assess dietary intake and nutritional status of the population are essential to monitor ongoing nutrition transition and initiate appropriate interventions. In village, routine reporting of nutritional status by the health and social welfare functionaries is suboptimal. India has therefore invested heavily in periodic surveys to obtain data on nutrition transition. Given its size and variation it is important that at least state level data are available. In view of the known interdistrict variations in the same state and the current emphasis on decentralized district based planning, implementation and monitoring of intervention programmes, efforts are currently under way to collect and report specific data where ever possible.

- Create awareness about nutritional issues and significance of nutrition as an important determinant of health.

WORLD PHARMACIST DAY CELEBRATION-2015

"PHARMACISTS: YOUR PARTNERS IN HEALTH"

About World Pharmacists Day

World Pharmacists Day was adopted by The International Pharmaceutical Federation (FIP) Council at the 2009 World Congress of Pharmacy and Pharmaceutical Sciences in Istanbul, Turkey. September 25 was chosen because it is the date that the FIP came into existence in 1912. The purpose of World Pharmacists Day is to encourage activities that promote and advocate for the role of the pharmacist in improving health in every corner of the world.

About Theme

This year theme "Pharmacists: your partners in health" is developed by FIP to stress the confidence and close collaboration that pharmacists have with patients and other health care professionals. It could also be used to emphasise to policy-makers the concept of pharmacists being providers of solutions to governments through their services; a key tactical approach in FIP's vision. The theme covers self-care, but equally relates to all elements of the supply chain, industry, research and hospital. "Partnership, in other words cooperation and collaboration, to ensure that the best possible quality of health care is provided to individuals and the community at large is also a component of FIP's Code of Ethics for Pharmacists and its Model Oath for Pharmacists."
